The people of Pondicherry have been demanding since long renaming of the Union territory of Pondicherry as the Union territory of Puducherry on the basis that in the ancient time the said territory was known as Puducherry. The Legislative Assembly of Pondicherry passed an official resolution on the 15th October, 1980 requesting the Government of India to pass necessary legislation for altering the name of Pondicherry. The proposal was also approved by the then Council of Ministers of the Union territory of Pondicherry. Subsequently, in 1996, the Council of Ministers reiterated their request for changing the name of Pondicherry as Puducherry and forwarded the proposal to the Government of India for approval. Further, in 1999, the Chief Minister of Pondicherry again reiterated the proposal for change of name of the Union territory of Pondicherry.

2. Therefore, it has been decided to introduce a Bill for the purpose of altering the name of the Union territory of Pondicherry to Union territory of Puducherry by amending, inter alia, the —

- (a) Part VIII of the Constitution;
- (b) First Schedule of the Constitution;
- (c) Fourth Schedule of the Constitution; and

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Special Service Bureau (SSB) was raised in 1963 under the Cabinet Secretariat in the backdrop of Chinese aggression. The organisation was initially functional in the region of the then North East Frontier, North Assam, North Bengal, hills of Uttar Pradesh, Himachal Pradesh and Jammu. Subsequently, its activities were extended to other border areas in Manipur, Tripura, Meghalaya, Sikkim, Rajasthan, Gujarat, Mizoram, South Bengal, Nagaland and some areas of Kashmir valley. In January, 2001, on transfer of the Special Service Bureau from Cabinet Secretariat to Ministry of Home Affairs, the Special Service Bureau was assigned with the new role of border guarding force on Indo-Nepal and Indo-Bhutan Borders. The name of Special Service Bureau was changed to Sashastra Seema Bal with effect from 27th March, 2004. Considering the nature and purpose of the Force and experience gained during the last four decades, it has been felt that the Force should be regulated by a separate self-contained statute which will provide for its special needs of efficiency and discipline.

2. As the Sashastra Seema Bal is charged with the guarding of the Indo-Nepal and Indo-Bhutan borders, the Bill seeks to ensure that the standards of efficiency and discipline of the Force are of a high order.

3. The Bill seeks to achieve the above objectives.

Notes on clauses

Clause 2 defines the various expressions used in the Bill.

Sub-clause (1)(a) of this clause defines 'active duty'. Broadly speaking, according to this definition, a member of the Force will be on active duty during the period he is attached to, or forms part of, a unit of the Force—

(i) which is engaged in operations against an enemy, or

(ii) which is operating at a picket or engaged on patrol or other guard duty along the borders of India, and includes duty by such person during any period declared by the Central Government by Order as a period of active duty with reference to any area in which any person or class of persons subject to this Act may be serving;

Certain offences such as under clauses 18, 22 and 23 are punishable more severely when committed on active duty. The definition is modelled on the definition of 'active duty' in the Indo Tibetan Border Police Force Act, 1992.

Clause 3 specifies the persons subject to the legislation.

Clause 4 provides for the constitution of the Sashastra Seema Bal.

Clause 5 provides for the general superintendence, direction and control of the Force and appointment of officers of the Force.

Clause 6 deals with enrolment of persons to the Force.

Clause 7 provides that members of the Force shall be liable to serve in and outside India.

Clauses 8 to 12 deal with tenure of service, etc., of members of the Force.

Clause 13 seeks to impose certain restrictions on the rights of members of the force to form association and on their freedom of speech, etc.

Clauses 14 and 15 provide for remedy of aggrieved persons including officers.

Clauses 16 to 48 provide for offences under the legislation and the penalties therefor, for the various acts prejudicial to the maintenance of discipline, good order and efficiency of the Force.

Clauses 49 and 50 seek to provide that all civil offences committed by the members of the Force within or beyond India shall be deemed to be the offences under the legislation and shall be triable by a Force Court. Exception under section 50 has, however, been made in respect of the civil offences of murder, culpable homicide not amounting to murder and rape in relation to civilians where such offences are committed by the members of the Force while not on active duty.

Clause 51 lays down the various punishments which may be awarded by Force Courts.

Clause 52 enables a Force Court to take into account the nature and degree of the offence committed and to award to the person convicted of any offence under clauses 16 to 48 the punishment prescribed by the relevant provision or alternative punishment lower in the scale under clause 51.

Clause 53 sets out the punishments which may be awarded in combination by a Force Court.

Clause 54 provides that enrolled person sentenced on active duty by a Force Court to imprisonment whether combined with dismissal or not, may be retained to serve in the ranks and such service shall be reckoned as part of his term of imprisonment.

Clauses 55 to 59 deal with imposition of certain minor punishments for offences under the legislation without the intervention of a Force Court. Clause 56 seeks to authorise a commanding officer of and above the rank of Commandant to proceed in the prescribed manner against any person other than an officer or subordinate officer and award one or more punishments specified therein. Clause 57 imposes certain limitations in respect of award of these punishments. Clause 58 authorises an officer not below the rank of Inspector-General to proceed in the prescribed manner against an officer of or below the rank of Commandant and award one or more punishments specified in the clause. Clause 59 provides for review of proceedings under clause 58 by the prescribed authority in the prescribed manner.

Clause 60 provides for imposition of collective fines in case of loss or theft of weapons or ammunition of a unit upon the subordinate officers, under-officers and men of such unit considered to be responsible for the loss or theft. To avoid abuse, it has been provided that the power can be exercised only by an officer not below the rank of Commandant of a unit.

Clauses 61 to 68 provide for deductions that may be made from the pay and allowances of officers and other persons subject to the legislation.

Clauses 69 to 74 deal with arrest and proceedings before trial. Clause 69 provides that any person charged with an offence under the legislation may be taken into Force custody under the order of a superior officer but an officer who is engaged in a quarrel, affray or disorder may be ordered into Force custody by even an officer inferior in rank. Clause 70 provides for the action that has to be taken after arrest. The charge against every person taken into Force custody must be investigated within forty-eight hours unless investigation within that period is impracticable having regard to the public service. In case of delay the matter has to be reported to superior authorities. Clause 71 provides that in every case where any person who is not on active duty remains in Force custody for a longer period than eight days without a Force Court being convened for his trial, a special report giving reasons for the delay should be made by the commanding officer and a similar report should be forwarded at intervals of every eight days until a Force Court is convened or such person is released from custody. Clauses 72 and 73 provide for assistance of magistrates, police officers and other civil authorities in the matter of apprehension and arrest of persons accused of offences under the legislation and deserters from the Force. Clause 74 provides for inquiry into absence without leave of a person subject to the legislation.

Clause 75 provides for appointment of Force Police Officers and defines their functions and duties. The Force Police Officers are intended to serve as the internal police of the Force.

Clause 76 provides for three kinds of Force Courts, namely, General Force Courts, Petty Force Courts and Summary Force Courts, for the trial of offences under the legislation.

Clauses 77 to 86 deal with convening of Force Courts, the composition of Force Courts and their powers.

Clause 87 provides that a person subject to the legislation who has been acquitted or convicted of an offence by a Force Court or a criminal court or who has been dealt with under clause 56 or clause 58 (relating to imposition of minor punishments by certain officers) shall not be liable to be tried again by a Force Court or dealt with under the said clauses. It thus prohibits a second trial in respect of the same offence.

Clause 88 prescribes a three-years period of limitation for trial of all offences under the legislation except the offences of desertion and mutiny.

Clause 89 deals with the liability of a person who has ceased to be subject to the legislation after the commission of an offence thereunder.

Clause 90 provides for the continued application of the legislation during the term of sentence.

Clause 91 deals with place of trial.

Clauses 92 and 93 deal with choice of forum for the trial of offences in respect of which both a Force Court and a Criminal Court have concurrent jurisdiction.

Clauses 94 to 118 deal with the procedure of Force Courts. In particular, clause 99 seeks to apply provisions of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 to all proceedings before a Force Court.

Clauses 119 and 120 make provision for tendering of pardon to accomplice and trial of such persons not complying with conditions of pardon. These clauses are on the lines of the provisions, in this regard, contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.

Clauses 121 to 132 deal with confirmation and revision of findings and sentence of Force Courts.

Clauses 133 to 152 deal with execution of sentences of Force Court, pardon of persons convicted by such courts, remission or suspension of such sentences, etc.

Clause 153 provides for powers and duties conferrable and imposable on members of the Force. This clause empowers the Central Government to direct exercise of such powers and discharge of such duties by members of the Force as are exercisable or dischargeable by an officer of the corresponding or lower rank under any Central Act. This clause also empowers the Central Government to confer or impose, with the concurrence of a State Government, any powers or duties under the State Act upon the members of the Force of corresponding rank.

Clause 154 provides for protection of acts of members of Force.

Clause 155 deals with the powers of the Central Government to make rules.

Clause 156 provides that the existing Sashastra Seema Bal shall be deemed to be the Sashastra Seema Bal constituted under the legislation and makes the necessary and saving provisions in regard to persons appointed to the existing Sashastra Seema Bal and as to actions taken and things done in relation to the constitution of the existing Sashastra Seema Bal.

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Clause 4 of the Bill provides for the constitution of the Sashastra Seema Bal. Clause 5 provides for appointment of certain officers of the Force. Clause 6 provides for enrolment of persons to the Force. Clause 75(1) deals with appointment of officers of the Force and clause 95 deals with appointment of Judge Attorney-General and other officers of Force Court.

2. The Sashastra Seema Bal in existence at the commencement of this Act shall be deemed to be the Force constituted under clause 4 of the Bill.

3. All expenses incurred in connection with the administration of this Force would be met from the Consolidated Fund of India. As the Force is already in existence, no additional expenditure of a non-recurring nature is likely to be involved when the Bill is enacted and brought into force. The expenditure on the administration of the Force during 2005-2006 was of Rs. 612.92 crores.

4. No expenditure of a non-recurring nature is involved.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Clause 155 of the Bill empowers the Central Government to make rules for carrying into effect the provisions of the legislation. The matters in respect of which such rules may be made include the constitution, governance, command and discipline of the Force, the appointment and conditions of service (including deductions from pay and allowances) of members of the Force, the convening, constitution, adjournment, dissolution and sitting of Force Courts, the procedure to be followed by such Courts and other matters relating thereto, the constitution, procedure and practice of courts of inquiry, recruitment and conditions of service of Judge Attorney-General and other officers of his set-up, etc.

2. The matters in respect of which rules may be made under clause 155 are essentially matters of detail or procedure and are merely ancillary to the proper implementation of the legislation. The delegation of legislative power is thus of a normal character.

YOGENDRA NARAIN,
Secretary-General.
